

„The Teutonic Order, whose members called themselves "Brothers of the German House of St. Mary in Jerusalem" after the former German hospital in Jerusalem, was founded in 1190 in Acre, initially as a hospital brotherhood and since 1198 also as a knightly community for the protection of pilgrims in the Holy Land.
The Teutonic Order arrived in Bozen in 1202, where a hospital and a church were built near the Eisack River at the base of Mount Virgl. Since the location was repeatedly threatened by floods, the Order acquired the lower noble tower of Weggenstein in the village district of Bozen in 1392.
In 1400, the Order permanently moved its official residence to the new location, which had since been elevated to a territorial command within the Teutonic Orders "Ballei" "An der Etsch und im Gebirge".
In 1932, the Collegium Marianum, a boarding school for pupils and students, was established.
During World War II, American bombings damaged the church and parts of the new location in 1944, particularly the "Knöringenturm". On the occasion of the 800th anniversary of the Teutonic Order, the original baroque condition of the ensemble was restored and a chapel was consecrated in the rebuilt "Knöringenturm" in 1991.
Today, members of the Teutonic Order are active both in pastoral and in elderly care. Since 2016, the Collegium Marianum has exclusively housed University's students."
